

Ann Nguyen

Prior to attending law school, Anh Nguyen worked as an investigative producer for the NBC affiliate in Las Vegas, Nevada and the ABC affiliate in Portland, Oregon. She received an Emmy nomination for Best Investigative News Story. After covering the Springfield, Oregon school shooting, she decided it was time for a change and to take on a new challenge.

During law school, Anh spent time working for Washington Supreme Court Justice Susan Owens. She was the recipient of the National Asian Pacific American Bar Association Law Foundation Scholarship, Asian Bar Association of Washington Scholarship, and Seattle University School of Law Diversity Scholarship. Anh also received the Best Brief award in a national moot court competition.

Anh serves as Senior Deputy Prosecuting Attorney for the King County Prosecuting Attorney Office's Civil Division in Seattle, Washington, advising on nearly all technology contracts and intellectual property matters for King County since 2004.

Continuing her passion for education, Anh has been an instructor at Edmonds Community College in the Paralegal Program since 2005, teaching Legal Research and Writing, Contracts, and Intellectual Property. She also serves as a Bar Examiner for the Washington State Bar Association.
