

To send on June 6: “Exactly one week until #TCRPday! The Transit Cooperative Research Program is an applied, research program that develops practical solutions to problems facing the public #transit industry. Learn more about #TCRP > <http://bit.ly/TCRPhome>”

To send on June 12: “Tomorrow is #TCRPday, when public #transit organizations will host educational events on the latest research and innovative solutions that are improving mobility and public transportation”

To send at 9:00 am on June 13: “The public #transit industry is advancing and innovating, and today we’ll share some of the latest research and #transit solutions for #TCRPday”

To send before the brown-bag event: “Our colleagues are using today’s break-time to learn about the best #transit research from the Transit Cooperative Research Program. Many of us have personal experiences putting research into action, and making our organization better! #TCRPday”

To post right after the brown-bag event with a crowd or group picture from the event: “A big thank you to those that spent time today learning about the Transit Cooperative Research Program and the resources and research available to improve public #transit! #TCRPday <http://bit.ly/TCRPhome>”

To post at 4:00 pm on June 13: “We had a great time on #TCRPday seeing how other #transit agencies are developing practical solutions to issues facing the industry. Learn more online at the Transit Cooperative Research Program homepage <http://bit.ly/TCRPhome>”

Post at noon on June 14 with another group image taken on June 13: “Yesterday was #TCRPday and staff took some time to learn about Transit Cooperative Research Program studies that have found best-practices to improve public #transit and boost community mobility! <http://bit.ly/TCRPhome>”