

To send on September 29:

#TCRPday is this week! The Transit Cooperative Research Program is an applied research program that develops practical solutions to problems facing the public #transit industry. Learn more about #TCRP > <http://bit.ly/TCRPhome>

To send on September 30:

Tomorrow is #TCRPday, when public #transit organizations will host educational events on the latest research and innovative solutions that are improving mobility and public transportation

To send at 9:00 am on October 1:

The public #transit industry is advancing and innovating, and today we'll share some of the latest research and #transit solutions for #TCRPday

To send before a brown-bag event or a tabling event:

Our colleagues are using today's break-time to learn about the best #transit research from the Transit Cooperative Research Program. Many of us have personal experience putting research into action and making our organization better! #TCRPday

To post right after your event with a crowd or group picture from the event:

A big thank you to those that spent time today learning about the Transit Cooperative Research Program and the resources and research available to improve public #transit! #TCRPday <http://bit.ly/TCRPhome>

To post at 4:00 pm on October 1:

We had a great time on #TCRPday seeing how other #transit agencies are developing practical solutions to issues facing the industry. Learn more online at the Transit Cooperative Research Program homepage <http://bit.ly/TCRPhome>

Post at noon on October 2, with another group image taken on October 1:

Yesterday was #TCRPday and staff took some time to learn about Transit Cooperative Research Program studies that have found best-practices to improve public #transit and boost community mobility! <http://bit.ly/TCRPhome>